The New England Section would like you to be part of this essential conversation regarding the future of the Institute of Transportation Engineers and if we as a professional engineering society need to re-shape the Institute going forward.

ITE is a great institution. Do we need to make it better? You decide and provide your input at a special roundtable discussion at our upcoming New England Section Annual Meeting in December. Is ITE ready and willing to adapt to changes in our industry and the transformation of cars versus transit? Do we need to? Are grass roots organizations our friends or our competition? What is our role in influencing public policy? Help us shape this intriguing debate to derive consensus but above all, understand the needs of our organization going forward.
